

BOTH INVASION AND ANTI-INVASION
"TRAFFIC STAFFS" SWING INTO ACTION
AT CHANNEL; INVASION GREEN LIGHT*Jam in Movement Might Well Tip Scales and Slide "Breaks" Into Lap of "The Other Side"—Keep Trains, Trucks Rolling To and From Second Front

Following is the fourth of a series of pre-invasion stories by Pierre J. Huss, noted war correspondent, detailing the extraordinary invasion preparations being made on both sides of the English Channel.

By Pierre J. Huss
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREMACY ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, England, Apr. 7.—(INS)—On both sides of the Channel, invasion and anti-invasion "traffic staffs" have swung into action to make sure that the green light will always be given to trains and trucks rolling to and from the second front.

A jam in movement or transport shortage of serious extent at critical moments, it is well realized by both the Allies and the Germans, might well tip the scales and slide the "breaks" into the lap of the "other side."

A survey shows that every effort has been made to cope with even the most appalling traffic demands during invasion peaks. In Britain, crammed with troops and war material, every piece of rolling stock, every truck and every spare male and female driver has been recruited to keep the wheels moving when the crucial hours materialize. And Hitler has been careful to overhaul and get ready for giant demands the entire highway and railway system of western Europe.

Allied railway officials, in stressing the dire necessity of having everything set from the word "go" as far as traffic movements are concerned—including complete public cooperation, have pointed out that in the past months, the Germans have been extremely busy in preparing continental transport—particularly railways—for the second front burdens and emergencies. According to the available information, Hitler's traffic staffs have constructed or gathered together large numbers of military trains, designed to carry troops and supplies to focal anti-invasion points.

The same source asserts that the Germans have ready numerous specially equipped trains to repair tracks, signals and telephonic communications as speedily as possible after bombings. They are badly hit in the big towns such as Berlin and Stuttgart, but are in a position to keep the railways functioning after rapid repairs. In the past two years, they concentrated on the construction of several thousands of locomotives and endless thousands of freight-cars.

In the opinion of the Ministry of Economic Warfare officials, the German railway system will not break down due to the bombings or under the coming overload placed on it by the second front.

"However," he added, "there is the possibility that in France, Belgium and Holland the railways will be brought to a state of impotence under Allied battering. Still, it would be suicide for us to rely and count on a breakdown on the German railway system."

Allied experts are keeping in mind, also, the thousands of miles of double-track highways (the Hitler-built Autobahnen) able to take much of the load off German railways.

Music and Book Reviews Interest Sorosis Members

LANGHORNE, Apr. 7.—The musical section of the Sorosis program yesterday afternoon was in charge of local musicians, led by Edward Mohrbach. A string trio, consisting of Mrs. Edward Mohrbach, Mrs. G. C. Mather and Mrs. D. H. Krouse played "In Melody Lane," "Echoes of the Ball" and "Shifting Shadows," and gave as an encore "Victory March," written by Mr. Mohrbach.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Lester Ransom, club president.

"Literature" was the topic for the day, with several book reviews included. Mrs. Harry Rotkermel reviewed the four abridgements in the April issue of "OmniBook" and also gave amusing scraps of "Country Colic" from the "Weeder's Digest".

Mrs. Ernest Gamble read Mrs. Harvery's review of "Judith" (Whitney), a novel of post Revolutionary Philadelphia, which carries dramatic situations. The scourge of yellow fever as recounted makes all thankful for modern sanitation and health programs.

Mrs. Leon Baker read some poetry of Robert Frost, and called attention to the lovely lines rising from Frost's experience and understanding of homely situations.

The club chairman of gardens, Mrs. Roscoe Horner, announced that Walter Pitzonka, of Bristol Township, will be the speaker on April 20th. Members are asked to have garden questions ready at that time.

An art exhibit in one of the Maple avenue windows of the Parry building is Sorosis' entry in the contest sponsored by Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs. The windows will be judged next Tuesday, it is announced. All entries in the window in question are the work of Sorosis members.

He reported for duty yesterday and then last evening shortly before ten o'clock was found to be ill by Police Officer Edward Bartle, who had stopped in at the headquarters, not being on duty at the time. Officer Bartle saw that Mr. Harper was ill and at once reported to Chief of Police Linford J. Jones. Mr. Harper was removed to the detention room and placed in bed, while his physician was summoned. He was later removed to the Wagner hospital by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. He had suffered a stroke.

The deceased was a native of Scotland, but came to Bristol when he was 15 years of age. He was 68 years old and resided at 717 Pond street.

Mr. Harper served for many years as president of America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2. He was affiliated with Bristol Presbyterian Church, in which he had been active for a number of years. The service in St. James' Episcopal Church for this afternoon has been so arranged that individuals can enter or leave at any time between 12 and three when the Rev. George E. Boswell, rector, will have meditation on the seven last "words." This evening at eight, Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be presented in that church.

Midway Youth is Shot; Hearing for Other Lad

One boy was shot in the right arm this morning when he and a chum were at Midway. Lawrence Crawford, 11, of Midway, was struck by a bullet from a 22 calibre antique revolver while allegedly in the hands of John Stephenson, 14, also of Midway.

The Stephenson boy has been given a hearing, and released in the custody of his parents. The story told to Chief Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, and Pvt. Theodore Jones of Penna. State Police, South Langhorne barracks, is to the effect that the gun was discharged while in the hands of Stephenson.

Stephenson, according to the police, obtained the gun from the home of Grace Hill, Hulmeville, on Tuesday morning, without the knowledge of the owner. The two boys apparently started "gunning" this morning, when the accident occurred.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY

Roosevelt Robinson, 219 West Queen Lane, Philadelphia, pleaded guilty before Judge Hiram H. Kellish before a charge of operating an automobile after his operator's privilege had been revoked.

He was arrested on July 17, 1942, in Warminster township, by Trooper Antonich as he was on his way to Lahaska. Robinson is a dog catcher for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

His license was revoked after he had been arrested in Lancaster county for drunken driving. He informed the Court that he drove his car to Bucks county in order to park it on the grounds of a club near Lahaska to save garage rent in Philadelphia.

The defendant's occupation is "handling vicious dogs and dogs with the rabies."

Robinson told the Court that he had been arrested several times, years ago, for hand-fighting and selling whiskey.

Judge Keller sentenced Robinson to pay a fine of $150 and costs and serve 10 days in the Bucks County Prison.

Joseph Geiger, Jr., of Phila., was before Judge Keller on a charge of desertion and non-support brought by his wife, Dorothy, of Crofton.

Smokers and all-night poker parties kept her husband out often times, Mrs. Geiger told the Court. Blondes and other girls were brought in the case by Mrs. Geiger.

Mrs. Geiger said she would be willing to take her husband back if he would behave. The defendant informed the Court that he would not be willing to live together.

Geiger formerly worked at a Bristol airplane plant and made $50 a week. He quit that job, went to Phila. to live with his sister and took a job at $20 a week.

Dr. Arthur N. Cook, of Temple University, to Speak On April 13th

LETTER FROM MEMBER

The Bristol Exchange Club met last evening in the Elks Home with 31 members present.

Plans were completed for the gala event on April 13th when Dr. Arthur N. Cook, head of the department of history of Temple University, Philadelphia, will be the guest speaker. His subject will be "The Twilight of Imperialism."

It was decided that the Exchange Club would be represented at the banquet which will be held to celebrate "I Am An American" Day.

Walter Pitzonka read a letter which he received from Capt. James S. Douglass, a fellow member stationed in London:

New Year's Day, 1944

Dear Walt:

Home and Forces War News—Christmas and New Year's were spent on the job here at Headquarters as usual, and we had good turkey dinners with cranberries and pumpkin pie at officers' mess. On Christmas Day I came into town and attended the Free Church Union Service held in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The minister quite properly prayed for the King and Queen and our President. I wanted to ask him if he forgot Eleanor, but didn't have time. The congregational minister preached and his message made me forget the fact that the church was not heated.

I spent the month of November in London and enjoyed seeing some of the sights, but as I took only one Sunday and one week day, there are many things left to see when my furlough comes. We saw buildings of Parliament, Westminster Abbey, Lord Nelson and Lions of Trafalgar Square, No. 10 Downing Street, Buckingham Palace, Piccadilly, Leicester Square, Hyde Park and the "pen soup." The dance-hall which was bombed on Sunday night's hit-run attack, occurred when I was in London. It was the worst incident since the school house was hit in January with a heavy loss in life.

I also saw St. Paul's Cathedral and the adjoining old London Town which was leveled by the blitz and fire of three years ago.

London is a big town estimated about twelve million these days, and much can happen without your knowing about it.

Last Monday was a holiday Boxing Day, which comes on the first week day after Christmas. We asked the English what the name means, but their attitude is that none ever asked that before.

Jim.

P. S.: We had several rose buds on bushes until after Christmas.

THREE P. T. A.'S SEEK BETTER ATTENDANCE

Special Campaigns Underway for Langhorne, S. Langhorne, Hulmeville

DURING THIS MONTH

Simultaneous campaigns for better attendance at the April meetings are being conducted by the Langhorne, South Langhorne, and Hulmeville Parent-Teacher Associations. At Hulmeville, the drive has already started in the form of a mail notice to all parents and others interested in the Hulmeville-Middletown school, inviting them to re-live their school days for the evening of Wednesday, April 19th, when Ned Moyer will conduct an old-fashioned school skit following a short business meeting. Both Langhorne and South Langhorne associations are relying chiefly on membership word-of-mouth advertising; and all three are being helped by advertisers in that area who have devoted advertising space this week to the message of P. T. A.

The Langhorne-Middletown meeting on Wednesday, April 12, will include a streamlined business meeting starting promptly at eight o'clock, followed at 8:40 by a talk on the need for special education, by Richard McFeeley, director of studies at George School, an expert on educational guidance, who will be presented by Myron T. Harris, Esq., chairman of the educational committee. Mr. McFeeley is a graduate of Swarthmore College, and pursued studies for his master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. His reputation in the field of education led to his selection last summer as a consultant to the Philadelphia Board of Education's workshop for teachers of social studies. A former member of Swarthmore's football team, he now coaches George School's clubs. He was also formerly on the dean's staff at Swarthmore. A brief musical interlude is scheduled at the Langhorne meeting also.

The South Langhorne meeting will be held on Thursday, April 13, at eight p. m., with Mrs. Lloyd Bucher, president, in the chair. A talk on the introduction to social living via the kindergarten, by Mrs. Aggar, will be the feature.

P L A N S INCOMPLETE

Progress Reported On Twp. Bldg. Addition; To Collect Back Taxes

Bristol Township school board agreed last evening to act as sponsor of a day nursery at Bristol Terrace housing project No. 2, provided plans reach fruition.

Attending the board meeting in the junior high school building last evening was Miss Lenore Berton, who explained to the board that efforts are being made to start such a nursery center. She explained that expenses will be met by government funds under the Lanham Act, with parents being charged not over 50 cents per day per child.

The board will serve merely in a supervisory capacity, and possibly oversee some clerical work, etc., it was explained. A committee of seven has been named, most members being from Bristol and Bristol Township area. Members are: Mrs. Morris Dayhoff, Mrs. Slaughter, Mrs. Marie Holland, Miss Lowe, Mrs. Tucker, Miss Lenore Berton, and John Slemmer.

It is planned to accommodate about 40 children of pre-school age, and 40 of school age. Registration will not be limited to the township residents, but any from this area may be accommodated if the nursery school is set up, it was explained. Breakfast and a cooked dinner will be served, the small sum charged the parents partially covering this. Children would be cared for during the day while mothers are working or after school hours. Ages of children cared for would be from two to 12 years. More definite information is to be given the board at the next meeting.

E. Leslie Helwig presided last evening, all directors being in attendance.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1944

GOOD FRIDAY

The death of the innocent Christ on the hill of Calvary nearly 2,000 years ago has a deeper meaning for many persons this year. The people of the world, the innocent and the guilty, find themselves undergoing a type of expiation themselves and out of their sufferings, whether physical or mental, emerges a greater appreciation of the sufferings endured on the Cross.

It happens that in this very week, when the events of Calvary are memorialized in the services of the Church, the war which has engulfed most of the peoples of the world appears to be entering a stage of greater intensity with still more suffering and pain in store for the participants. And many of those who are in the thick of the battle and are undergoing the most excruciating pain are individuals who have lived lives of blamelessness in comparison with others who are far removed from the scene of battle but have helped to bring the world to its present pass.

Those who are guiltless have in Christ the example of One who was wholly innocent, but gave His life, amid the sharpest suffering, out of love and mercy for the human race; those who, through worship of the false gods of materialism and selfishness, have brought the world to the edge of the abyss may look with hope to the Crucifixion scene where the dying Christ proposed Paradise to the repentant who was expiring at His side.

It should be the prayer of everyone on this day that the sufferings imposed by the war shall not have been in vain, but that they will bear fruit in the creation of a postwar world in which right and justice shall prevail and there shall be respect for the rights of man and his God-given personality.

CLEARING THE AIR

World-wide radio channels are jammed by the rush of calls to the extent that engineers have found it necessary to work on a new global system to relieve the crowding. American engineers believe they have a plan which is jam-proof, if other nations accept it.
They propose to establish a worldwide circling communications belt to which all countries could tie in.

The plan as proposed is to establish eight central transmission stations on an international trunk line in the semi-tropics 20 degrees north of the Equator.
These stations would be in Puerto Rico, Mexico City, Honolulu,
Guam, Hong Kong, Bombay,
Alexandria and the Canary Islands.

Such a belt would avoid magnetic disturbances at the Poles and the humid conditions at the Equator. It is in fact the best radio channel on earth. A city such as New York would relay messages to the nearest central transmission point—in this case, San Juan, Puerto Rico—and the message would move along the trunk line to its destination.

Little has been said about the counterfeit gasoline that is being sold on the black market.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Loving Father, the Creator of all things, the Custodian of Life itself, we praise Thee this day for the accomplishment of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, as he willingly laid down His life upon the cross. As we contemplate that tremendous event may we in a sense feel the divine suffering which was His, and may we have a vision of the Love which caused Him to make that tremendous sacrifice. Place within our hearts a willingness to sacrifice ourselves for Him Who gave Himself for us. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sportsmen's Briefs

BY JOE ELBERSON

Really good fishing . . . fifty years ago the Delaware River in this immediate vicinity offered the same type of fishing that you'd expect to find today only on some lake or stream in the Canadian wilderness.

That's the story that George Mathews, Burlington, N. J., told me the other evening. And George, who will be just 83 years old on April 27 next, was around when the Delaware River offered outstanding fishing to anglers. He was born and raised in Burlington.

George told me that he remembers the day (back in the 1800's) when sturgeon were so plentiful on local markets that they could be purchased for less than 5 cents a pound!

Although he no longer fishes, George, who has been the steward at the Burlington Elks' Home for a score of years, still strolls down to the Burlington wharf occasionally to see members of the present fishing generation landing a little catfish now and then.

"At one time I spent most of my leisure hours out on the Delaware," George declared.

"I can remember the time when you could row across from Burlington to Bristol and catch a dozen nice rockfish (the famous striped bass). They were extremely plentiful. We used to catch them on a trolling rig using a pearl minnow. Largest striper I ever got weighed 27 pounds."

Asked whether he had ever fished anywhere else besides the Delaware George said he remembered when he used to go outside in the ocean for blues . . . in the days before power boats were used (fished from a sailboat).

Date to remember . . . next Tuesday evening, April 11th. Meeting of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Walnut and Radcliffe Streets, at eight o'clock. Some good movies have been secured. Refreshments will also be on hand.

Yellow perch hitting . . . stopped the other day on the Jersey side of the Delaware below the PRR bridge in Trenton. At least a score of fishermen there, and everyone of them was catching yellow perch. Fishing the bottom and using worms for bait. Some of the perch were running better than a fish in length.

The size of an army . . . over 16,000,000 hunting and fishing licenses were issued in this country during the 1942-43 season, according to a story in the March issue of the Pennsylvania Game News.

There were 8,949,537 holders of hunting licenses during the 1942-43 season and 8,035,076 fishing licenses sold during the year of 1943.

The above figures were released in a preliminary report by the Fish and Wildlife Service, and were based on reports received from 44 States plus estimates for the remaining four States.

A decrease of only 5.2 per cent was indicated over the total number of hunting and fishing license holders during the 1942 season. Revenue from the fishing licenses totaled over 10 million dollars and that for the hunting licenses was almost thirteen and a half million dollars.

Approximately 255,404,000 pounds of usable meat was harvested by hunters alone during the 1942-43 season.

Both Invasion and Anti-Invasion "Traffic Staffs" Swing Into Action

But the Allies are on their toes too. Appeals have gone out for thousands of volunteer truck drivers, both men and women. Every vehicle is getting the once-over in Britain, and wherever possible goes back into some form of road service.

In that connection, it was pointed out that every truck or lard-up car hauled back into the stream will add its bit to the war effort, especially in view of the fact that every Army division of troops needs 350 tons of supplies daily. The carving out of a major bridgehead on the continent, it is added, must be based on the quick assembly and transport of many divisions, and these must be kept fully supplied. It takes something like 3,000 trains to move 1,000,000 men, and thousands of freight trains to carry their weapons and rations.

To meet that strain, British railroads have already been placed on a special war footing and the public is being pressured to co-operate through educational campaigns. Contrary to the Hitler system of simply forbidding the public to travel, the British public has been asked to cut out voluntarily all but essential travelling and particularly to dispense with Easter trips. To add emphasis, the following four points have been hammered home:

1. On any morning, rain or shine, you may discover that all passenger traffic has been cancelled on the line.

2. Some of these cancellations could conceivably last three weeks, which means that you risk walking back to London from a week-end in the country or at the seashore.

3. If there is a train, you may find it being shunted into a siding and kept there 24 hours.

4. At some junction where you have to change trains, there will always be the danger that you will have to pace the dark station platform all night waiting for the next train.

To help move the endless train fleets once the second front is underway, girls generally known as "pilotwomen" will make their appearance on the main lines. Wearing red armbands, they have absolute authority which every engine-driver must accept unquestioningly in the same manner the captain of a ship obeys the pilot who takes the wheel. To these girls falls the responsibility of keeping one-track lines clear and giving the "go-ahead" signal. And their standing orders are to give the green light first and always to troop and freight trains of the second front.

Thomas Beatty, Phila., formerly of Eureka, was committed to Bucks County Prison for contempt of Court—failing to pay up a support order that is $270 in arrears.
